

Rajshahi University Journal of Arts & Law

ISSN 2309-0898

Guidelines for Contributors

Rajshahi University Journal of Arts & Law is an official journal of the University of Rajshahi that publishes research articles by faculty members of the University. Contributions to the Journal may be in English or in Bangla and must be previously unpublished articles containing original research that have not been submitted for publication elsewhere. All submissions are subject to peer review and to edition by the Editorial Board. Articles accepted for publication have to be proof-read by contributors who are entitled to 20 copies of off-prints as well as a bound copy of journal in which the article appears. The decision of the Editorial Board regarding publication is final and the copyright of published articles rests with the University of Rajshahi. Letter of Acceptance is given only after an article accepted finally.

Manuscripts submitted for publication must be in three copies, in neat and clear double-spaced typescript or electronic print-out on Letter size (8.5"×11") white sheets with margins of 1.25" on all sides and pages consecutively numbered. The manuscript should have a title-page with the title of the article and the author's name, designation and contact address. The title should also be placed on the first page of the text of the article. The author's name or anything that may identify the author should not appear anywhere in the text paper. Submissions should be addressed to the Secretary, Rajshahi University Journal of Arts and Law, Publications Office, University of Rajshahi, Rajshahi 6205.

An abstract in English must be provided within 150 words at the beginning of the article. Notes and references in the text should be placed at the end of the article under the caption "Notes and References". Notes should be numbered consecutively in the text in superscript (i.e., one half-line above the text). The note index number should be placed after all punctuation in a sentence, i.e., it should be placed after a comma or semicolon or the concluding full stop of the sentence. For articles in the Humanities the following is the prescribed form of documentation notes on their first occurrence:

Books: Published Books Should be cited by the author's name in normal order (first name first), title and subtitle (if any) of the book underlined or in italics, place of publication, publisher's name, year of publication within brackets, page number (s) preceded by the abbreviation "p" or "pp".

Example: 1Edward W. Covering Islam: How the media and the Experts Determine How We See the Rest of the World (New York: Pantheon Books, 1981), p. 155.

If the book has two or three authors the name of all the authors should be mentioned. When there are more than two or three authors, the name of one author should be followed by the abbreviation "et al" (Meaning and others). If the book is one of a series, the series title should be mentioned after the title of the book. In the case of an edited version of a text, the editor's name preceded by the abbreviation "ed." should follow the title of the book. If it is a translation, the translator's name should follow the title, preceded by the abbreviation "trans." Reprints should be identified by the date of original publication, which should precede the publication data within brackets. The following is an example: A.P. Thornton, The Imperial Idea and Its Enemies: A Study in British Power (1959; London: Macmillan, 1985), p. 30. The citation here is to a 1985 reprint of a book originally published in 1959.

Periodicals: Author or authors' name(s) in normal order (first name first), title of article in quotation marks, title of periodical underlined or in italics, volume and / or issue number, year of issue within brackets, page number without the abbreviation "p" for "page".

*Example of reference to an article in a journal with continuous pagination throughout the volume:*¹ Nancy Fraser, "The French Derrideans: Politicising Deconstruction or Deconstructing Politics." New Gorman Critique 33 (1984), 127-54.

*Example of reference to an article in a journal which paginates each issue separately or which numbers only issues:*² Abdul Karim, "Murshid Quli Khan's Regulations Regarding Price and Supply of Rice," Journal of the Asiatic Society of Bangladesh 29, No. 1 (June, 1984), 1-20.

When a book or periodical has been identified by full reference in note, subsequent citations should be shortened. Subsequent references should contain only the author's last name and the page numbers. If a subsequent reference occurs many pages after the first one then the citation should be by author's last name, shortened title of the book or article, and page numbers. For example, subsequent reference to the citation in the first note above should be: ²Said, p. 21 or ³Said, Covering Islam, P. 32. Abbreviations such as "op.cit.," "loc. cit.," or "ibid.," Should not be used.

A study sheet containing more information on manuscript conventions is available on request from the Publications Office, University of Rajshahi, Rajshahi-6205, Bangladesh.